

Once upon a time a little girl was playing in her garden. Suddenly a magical unicorn appeared in front of her.

“Hello?” said the girl.

“Hello,” said the unicorn “My name is Miss Magic”.

“Why are you here?” said the girl. “Before you tell me, my name is Lilly.”

“Well hello Lilly. I am here to tell you that you have been invited to Princess Power School!”

“But I'm not a princess?”

“I know. But you have been chosen because you are kind to people around you and thoughtful. But the most wonderful power is you can make the world a better place”

Lilly thought for a while.

“So would you like to come Lilly?” said Miss Magic.

“Yes, said Lilly “But how do we get there?”

“By magic of course! Come on! We will be late”

So Lilly and Miss Magic teleported to a beautiful school. It looked like a castle but white and pink.

Lilly could see some princesses coming by boat or carriage or even riding a unicorn!

“Were all these princesses picked like me?” asked Lilly

“Yes”, said Miss Magic and we transformed them into princesses.

Miss Magic gave Lilly a pink sparkly dress and silver tiara. She was so pretty.

She was taken to a beautiful room. She had a sparkly four poster bed with embroidered roses patterns on her duvet and pillow. Next to her bed was a pretty mahogany wooden desk with school books on it in a neat pile. In the corner of the room was a giant pink fluffy teddy bear! Lilly was so happy because the note on the teddy said, “Meet me, Miss Bluebell, in the courtyard of the palace tomorrow morning.” Miss Bluebell was the school headteacher.

It was getting late. Lilly headed down to the dining room for dinner. There were china plates and cups and saucers on the tables. There was a tasty looking roast chicken in the middle of each table as well as lots and lots of cakes.

After dinner it was bedtime so Lilly headed up to her bedroom to go to sleep. She pulled out her pink nightdress from her wardrobe and took a book off the shelf in her room. She picked out her favourite Harry Potter book. After one minute Lilly had fallen asleep. She was dreaming of her own pet unicorn and floating in the cotton candy clouds.

The next morning she put on her dress, tiara and princess shoes. She headed to the courtyard because she didn't want to be late! She told herself that it would be exciting to meet the headteacher because she was a little worried in case she wasn't a nice lady.

She didn't need to worry because Miss Bluebell was a lovely lady. Lilly was curious because Miss Bluebell had a worried look on her face. Lilly asked her what was wrong? Miss Bluebell told her the evil Snow Queen was making all the forest animals ill and using her powers to make a snowstorm, even though it's summer! Miss Bluebell said she had managed to save a baby unicorn to give to Lilly. "With your unicorn and your magic powers, I want you to go to the Snow Palace and take the Snow Queen's Enchanted Sceptre of Power and bring it back to the school to stop the snowstorm and take away her powers."

Lilly went on her unicorn and rode all the way to the dark and scary mountain where the Snow Queen lived. Lilly got off her Unicorn and went into the icy Snow Palace. Lilly shivered inside her shawl because it was freezing cold inside the palace. Lilly could hear an evil cackling coming from the highest tower in the palace. Lilly climbed up to the tower and could see the Snow Queen looking out over the Magic Kingdom. "Stop it!" Lilly shouted "You are making all the animals ill and everyone is very upset!"

The Snow Queen turned to Lilly, her skin was ice blue and she had the golden sceptre in her hands. Lilly went deep into thought and everything was quiet. She focussed on her magic. When she was ready she opened her eyes and a dusting of magic filled the air and took the sceptre from the Queen. The Queen vanished into dust. Lilly had defeated the Snow Queen. The snowstorm had stopped. The animals would be feeling better now.

Lilly had made the world a better place.
